Hi Everyone:

I'm looking forward to meeting you guys again tomorrow.
There's been some interest generated about my little Indian Country lecture.
Expect to be joined by a few other fellows and interns as well as a funder of the school and some folks from the Marquette Native American community.

Given our short stamp on time, I intend to get things started at 1PM sharp with a hard break for us at 1:30 followed by a project update (for that, just for us, no other invited guests).

Here's a Google reminder if you need / want:

Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1-1:50 PM CST
Obrien Suite, Johnston Hall, Room 102

A kind reminder to please bring:
- Something to take notes with
- Your laptops

In preparation, please read 3 CURRENT news articles (from the fiscal week) that either deal with US-based tribes, politics or policy and bookmark the links so we can explore as part of the lecture and dialogue segment.

Thank you and I'll see you tomorrow!
